GAS COMPANY SILENT ON BERMAN REQUEST

Officials Decline To Comment on Proposal of Councilman.

Atlanta Gas Light Company officials Thursday declined to comment on a request of Councilman Joseph E. Berman, chairman of a special council committee, that the company withdraw its petition for an increased rate to domestic consumers. Berman addressed a letter to the company asking the withdrawal and based his petition on reports that within the past several weeks that company has increased its volume nearly 300,000 cubic feet a year through new contracts. A petition for a blanket hike for domestic users of about 30 per cent is now pending with the Georgia public service commission, and is being held there pending completion of a new valuation of properties by city experts.

Dr. John J. Bauer, rate economist, plans to file the report with city heads about August 23. The valuation he will make will be about $7,000,000, a total of $3,000,000 lower than company figures.

BODY OF CLEMONS ARRIVES FOR SERVICES

The body of John Francis Clemmons, 17, Atlanta art student, who was killed in an automobile accident last Tuesday in New York, was brought to Atlanta late Thursday afternoon for funeral and interment services. Arrangements will be announced later by H. M. Patterson & Son. Thomas A. Elrod, magazine cover artist and friend of Clemmons, was driving the car in which the two were riding when it crashed into a parked truck on Long Island. Elrod, charged with second degree manslaughter, was released in the custody of his father-in-law, H. G. Wade, of Sag Harbor, Long Island. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Elrod, of 2508 Dellwood drive.

GARAGE BLAST, FIRE CLAIMS LIVES OF FOUR

2 Employees and 2 Spectators
Die in Flames in Battle Creek.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Aug. 13. (AP)—Trapped in the showroom of a garage, where they were watching firemen fight a fire which started from an explosion in a rear room, four men were burned to death today and four others were injured. The fire followed an explosion in the garage of Jack Glenius on the eastern outskirts of Battle Creek. The explosion occurred when an employee poured gasoline into a heated automobile radiator, believing it to be water. The dead: Floyd Carlyle, 30, and Albert Latta, 25, employees of the garage, and Robert Fenton, 20, and Brady Irwin, 23, spectators. Fenton, Carlyle and Irwin were killed at once and Latta died early tonight. The burns suffered by four others were not serious. Nearly a score of persons rushed into the showroom of the garage after the explosion. As the firemen fought

Bank Losses Are Paid 24 Years After Crash

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(UP)—A 24-year uphill battle to fulfill the dying wish of his father ended today when John G. Jenkins Jr. filed a document in the Nassau county clerk's office showing that he had satisfied a judgment of $600,000. Twenty-four years ago a chain of banks on Long Island closed. Jenkins' father headed the institutions and depositors lost about $1,200,000. Jenkins Sr., on his deathbed, asked his son to see that every depositor get 100 cents on the dollar. It took the son 24 years to pay off the debts, but he finished with them today. First he sold his father's estate and used the money to make up part of the losses. Then he entered the real estate business and later the stock market. "My only regret," Jenkins said today, "is that father could not be here to know that the work is finished."

the flames in a rear room, a back draft caused the burning roof to collapse and swept the flames back into the showroom. The spectators jammed the door of the garage and were unable to break through the heavy plateglass windows. Other spectators in the street watched them fighting to escape as the flames swept over them. A fireman finally threw a brick through the window, releasing the imprisoned group.

If Flies Carried Machine Guns They Could Not Be More Dangerous

Yet Many Neglect to Protect Their Homes
SPRAY KILL-KO—IT FORMS GAS DEADLY TO ALL INSECTS, YET HARMLESS TO HUMANS, FURNITURE AND FABRICS

Multiplying at an almost unbelievable rate, living and feeding upon filth—insects spread all kinds of dangerous disease. Spray nooks, corners, crevices and closets with Kill-Ko and let its deadly gas—harmless to humans, furniture or fabrics, kill every insect in your home—and do it quicker than anything you have ever used. Kill-Ko is unlike other preparations. Instead of making it as cheap as possible, we have made it the most effective insecticide known. (adv.)

U. S. AIRMEN ORDERED TO REMAIN IN TOKYO

Pangborn and Herndon Detained Pending Outcome of 'Spy' Quiz.

TOKYO, Aug. 13.—(P)—Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon Jr., American fliers held for questioning because they allegedly took photographs of fortified areas while flying over Japan, were ordered today by government officials not to leave Tokyo, pending decision of their case, under penalty of imprisonment.

The order was issued at the conclusion of a long period of questioning by the public prosecutor, who will determine whether court action shall be taken against the aviators who flew here from Siberia to start a trans-Pacific flight after abandoning an attempt to circle the globe, started in New York.

Pangborn and Herndon also were ordered to leave word at their hotel whenever they left it.

The prosecutor did not say when he would give his decision, but an assistant told Herndon it probably would be soon.

The fliers were questioned in separate rooms today, covering much of the ground previously gone over, and bearing especially on how high the plane was flying at various points and the object of the fliers in taking photographs. Attorneys apparently took the view Pangborn and Herndon might have planned to sell pictures of the fortifications.

Herndon was questioned for seven hours and Pangborn for nine. The meal consisted of roast chicken, vegetables, ham and eggs, cake, ice and coffee.

"We have plenty of time for meals," said Herndon, "and as much as we can eat. I read during the time I am not being quizzed. It is very tiring, this quizzing, and at times very aggravating when a questioner dwells on minor points, but the officials are always courteous."

The Japanese law against photographing fortified areas provides for confiscation of the equipment involved and imprisonment for as long as three years.

FALL CLEMENCY REFUSED BY U. S.

Case Decided by Attorney General Without Submission to Hoover.

BY JOHN F. CHESTER.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(P)—Albert Bacon Fall, once secretary of the interior but now prisoner 6801 in the New Mexico state penitentiary, today lost his last hope of clemency from the hands of a former fellow cabinet member—President Hoover.

From Attorney General Mitchell came the quiet announcement that Fall's plea had been settled without even being submitted formally to the White House for decision.

As explanation he pointed to a comparatively recent executive order, providing that when the judges and prosecutors in a case advise against complying with a plea for clemency, it is rendered null and void save in exceptional cases. He handed a slip of paper to waiting newspapermen, upon which was written:

"None of the persons so consulted in this case advises clemency, and the attorney general has determined there is no reason to make a special order submitting the papers to the president."

"Under the rules the papers will be automatically filed away without further action. This course amounts to a denial of the application."

Faces Four Months.

Thus the former cabinet officer who was sentenced to a year and a day in prison and fined $100,000 for accepting a bribe from Edward L. Doheny, must continue in confinement for at least four months before even a parole can be considered for him.

Fall entered the penitentiary of his home state on July 20, in his seventieth year, and, suffering from

'Unionized' Rum Runners Denounced in Virginia
RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 13.—(P)—Returning today from a short visit to Roanoke, Captain R. G. Merrick, fourth district federal prohibition administrator, said that the most persistent effort being made to violate the law in Virginia is by "unionized" liquor runners operating between Franklin county and Roanoke City.

Captain Merrick said he was informed that liquor dealers whose chief source of supply is in Franklin county have banded themselves into a protective group providing bond and attorneys for "members" who are caught. He said that high-powered cars make daily trips over this highway, but that recent arrest and conviction of several persons believed to hold key positions in the traffic have served to curb it to a material extent and that the law enforcement drive will be continued in this locality.

various ailments, he described the am-
"damned hearse."

The opinions of three men were sought upon the clemency plea submitted in Fall's behalf.

One was Justice William Hitz, now of the District of Columbia court of appeals, who sentenced the former secretary. The others were Allee Pomeroy, of Cleveland, special prosecutor for the government in the oil trials, and United States District Attorney Leo A. Rover, of Washington.

Under the same executive order that allowed their votes to close the Fall plea, another clause provided that these opinions not be made public.

Only the announcement was made that they were adverse.

Widespread Speculation.
The closing chapter in Fall's long fight for freedom was written with unexpected suddenness. There had been speculation that the application might be denied at the White House, but little that the decision would be made before it reached there.

President Hoover, who was secretary of commerce while Fall served as chief of the interior department, said at the dedication of the Harding tomb at Marion, Ohio, that the former president had been "betrayed by a few of the men whom he had trusted."

When the attorney general was questioned at his regular press conference concerning when action might be expected on the Fall case, he replied he had already "prepared a short statement." In a few brief words it said that the case had been given careful and complete consideration, but that opinion had been unanimously against the granting of the plea.

German Courage Lauded by Walker
In Radio Address

BERLIN, Aug. 13.—(P)—In a speech which was broadcast to the United States tonight, Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, paid tribute to what he called the "excellent courage" with which the German nation faced present conditions.

Mayor Walker thanked the German people for their hospitality and paid tribute to Baroness Hunefeldt, mother of the late trans-Atlantic flier, declaring she represented an example of the highest type of motherhood.

At the beginning of the address, Mayor Walker expressed his gratitude for the German-American combination which made it possible for him to address a territory containing 200,000,000 people.

"It sounds like the democratic majority in New York city," he said. "Becoming serious, he declared Berlin had lost none of its hospitality during the depression."

"I wish every American could know the hospitality offered to Americans here," he said, "not only officially, but by the man in the street. I wish all our people might know the conditions that exist in Germany today. I wish they might understand the courage of the German mind, the kind of courage which will bring Germany to her former high position."

After his radio address the mayor told newspapermen he had accepted an invitation to go to Paris, August 25, to dedicate a memorial plaque.

T. W. CUNNINGHAM DIES IN NEW JERSEY
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—(P)—T. W. Cunningham, sheriff of Philadelphia county, died at Atlantic City today at the age of 72.

His death ended a five-year effort by the United States senate to have him tell where he obtained the $50,000 he said he contributed to the senatorial campaign fund of William S. Vare in 1926.

His effort to keep from the senate the source of the $50,000 was fought through the federal district and the federal circuit court of appeals and twice reached the supreme court of the United States, with the prospect of its going there a third time.

While this battle was going on, the senate refused to seat Vars. Joseph R. Grundy was appointed to the vacancy and was defeated in an election for the seat by James J. Davis, who now holds the place.

E. F. KENNEDY.
MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Aug. 13.—(P)—E. F. Kennedy, constable for the third district here, died at his home today following a heart attack. He came here several years ago from Pittsburgh, and was elected constable in 1928. He is survived by his widow.

SPAIN CLEARS WAY FOR CHURCH LAWS
MADRID, Aug. 13.—(P)—Dissolution of religious orders and nationalization of their property is provided for in the draft of the new Spanish constitution prepared by the parliamentary commission, which announced the text tonight after completing its labors.

The proposal also would empower the assembly to grant autonomous rule to any region requesting it, provided the request is supported by a 98 per cent majority of the voting population of the region, and also on condition that any separate autonomous states authorized within the republic would not attempt federations among themselves.

The text as announced tonight differed little from proposals of the government commission. It calls for legalization of divorce, universal suffrage, freedom of religious worship, and freedom of speech and the press.

FRUIT CANNING SEEN AS BOON FOR JOBLESS
WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(P)—A program to encourage the canning of surplus fruits and vegetables to provide food for the unemployed this winter has been initiated by the president's emergency committee for employment.

Fred C. Croxton, acting chairman, announced today the committee had recommended that local emergency organizations and other agencies dealing with relief aid the unemployed in canning foods or that the agencies themselves do the canning and distribute the food to the needy.

Already, he added, many committees have excellent programs in motion to provide this assistance, and many others are expected to begin shortly.

RAIL GROUPS SUPPORT HIGHER FREIGHT RATES

"Big Four" Brotherhoods To Urge Increase as Stimulus to Business.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 13.—(P)—Support of the "Big Four" railroad brotherhoods for the proposal of railroads that they be granted a 15 per cent increase in freight rates, was announced here late today in a statement issued by heads of the labor groups.

The brotherhood chiefs expressed belief the granting of the railroads' request will provide a "new stimulus to strengthen and support the business of the country."

The statement was issued by S. N. Berry, president, Order of Railway Conductors; Alvanley Johnston, grand chief engineer, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; A. F. Whitney, president, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen; and David B. Robertson, president, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers.

The statement said railway labor during the last decade has co-operated with railway management in the reduction of expenses through greater efficiency and economy of operation, in order to maintain railway credit and to meet the steadily decreasing freight revenues, "brought about principally by the vast number of rate reductions authorized by the interstate commerce commission during that decade."

ASSOCIATION URGES MORE USE OF COTTON

Greater Consumption Only Remedy for Situation, Body Says.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 13.—The Association for the Increased Use of Cotton tonight issued the following statement from its general headquarters in this city:

"Many remedies are being proposed for the present cotton situation. None of these remedies can be wholly effective unless there is an increased consumption of cotton products. The south must make us its mind to the fact that more cotton products must be consumed in the south before the situation regarding cotton can be improved.

"If all of the energies and efforts that are being devoted to trying to find some other way out were being spent in securing a greater consumption of cotton products there would, we believe, be an improvement in existing conditions at an early date. The supply of cotton on hand and in sight must be used up and the whole south should organize to use it as quickly as possible."

Old Courthouse Steps Make Way for Paving

McDONOUGH, Ga., Aug. 13.—After serving the public for nearly 50 years, the steps of the Henry county courthouse and the entrance porch of granite and brick have been removed this week to make way for the paving of the square.

Constructed in 1877, the second brick structure to house the county offices, the building was originally in a grove of oak trees. A short time ago the remaining trees were uprooted, preparatory to paving, and now the gathering place of the local politicians, the scene of many important transactions, the friendly portico, has been set aside by modern progress.

Garay Plans To Live Three Weeks On Plane After Landing on Ocean

SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 13.—(UP)—A lot of previous thought on the matter and 35 hours spent in a storm-lashed airplane which he deliberately "landed" on the ocean have convinced Captain Lisandro Garay, Honduran army aviator, that such a landing holds no necessary dangers in trans-oceanic flight.

To prove his contention, Captain Garay announced here today that after he has returned home with his Bellanca monoplane, "Lempira," in which he came down off Cape Lookout, N. C., at midnight Sunday, he will make such a landing deliberately and remain there for three weeks.

"I will do this for the benefit of aeronautical science, to show it is possible for a plane to survive such a landing until aid can arrive," Garay told the United Press on his arrival here aboard the S. S. Biboco, which effected his rescue at 10 a. m. Tuesday, 35 hours after he splashed to a landing in the Atlantic.

"I believe my experience proves that with proper provisions, your brave American aviator, Cramer, and his companion, missing on their flight to Copenhagen, need not necessarily be considered lost even at this late hour."

Garay nevertheless expressed deep gratitude to Captain William M. Lee and his crew of the Biboco for effecting his rescue, especially for taking time in which to salvage the "Lempira," which Lee at first tried to induce Garay to abandon, because of damage.

Garay started from New York late Sunday on a projected non-stop flight to Honduras. All went well until he was off Wilmington, N. C., he said, when thick, threatening clouds forced him to seek higher altitude.

"But my ship could not rise above the weather," he said, "so I decided deliberately to land upon the sea. First, I drained my gasoline tanks, to give the plane buoyancy, then made the best landing possible under the circumstances. The wind was blowing very hard, and I could not open the door of the cabin. I smashed the window and suffered some cuts. I then climbed to the tail of the ship and lashed myself fast, remaining there 35 hours until the Biboco appeared."

GARAY STILL LIABLE FOR COURT-MARTIAL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Honduran legion officials said tonight Captain Lisandro Garay's attempted non-stop flight to Tegucigalpa had not removed the probability of a court-martial for him upon his arrival home.

They recalled that the court-martial had been ordered several months ago when Garay failed to return to Honduras to help quell a revolution. His flight, which ended disastrously off the North Carolina coast, they said, had not changed the situation.

If convicted he would face loss of his rank as a captain in the Honduran army, a prison term or both. Unless the tribunal regarded the offense as extremely grave, it was said, a prison term of more than two or three years would be unlikely.

SCRAP THE FARM BOARD.

The proposal of the farm board to withhold its surplus cotton accumulation from the markets for one year, provided a third of the growing cotton throughout the south is destroyed, is one that could come only from a group of sadly muddled alleged experts.

The scheme is almost too fantastic and impractical for serious discussion.

In the first place, the growing of cotton as a personal industry is wholly outside the sphere of government, unless cotton staple, like opium poppies, wine bricks and moonshine liquor, imperils the popular health and morals. It is obviously absurd for government to tell a farmer how much cotton he may plant and reap.

Most of the cotton is pledged the banker and supply merchant for the credit upon which it is planted.

And through what agencies will the state inspect each of its hundreds of thousands of cotton farms to be sure that the owner or tenant-on-halves has destroyed one-third of his cotton plants?

It only needs a cursory understanding of the cotton growing industry to provision how absolutely impossible it would be to inaugurate and make measurably effective the grotesque plan proposed by the perplexed farm board.

The conviction has grown generally over the country that the farm board has failed from the start to operate to the benefit of the farmers whether in the cotton belt or the wheat belt. It has used nearly half a billion of the people's money in theoretic experiments, in exchange speculations, in marketing projects that affected only the domestic markets and affected them most unprofitably, and now it offers yet more unworkable schemes to keep distressed farmers guessing under which shell the pea of prosperity may be found!

Representative Crisp, of this state, has already announced that he will vote to abolish the farm board, and his position is right.

The sooner the farmers are freed from the restrictions and afflictions of this board the sooner will agriculture adjust itself to the economic conditions of this country and the world.

To continue the farm board will be only to further confound the present confusions among the cotton and wheat growers of the nation.

THE DEMOCRATIC SOUL.

The carefully observant editor of World's Work recently remarked in his magazine that "the democratic party is still in search of something missing. It is looking for its soul."

While that is a somewhat truculent republican comment it is not without a taste of red meat. The democratic party has a soul begotten for it by its immortal parent, Thomas Jefferson. That soul is not missing. The democratic party is not looking for it. The soul has been sleeping and the effort that the party needs to make is to awaken it and put it again into virile and militant action.

The soul of the democratic party stands for the rule of the people in the interest of the general welfare.

A tariff, for instance, framed to coddle and fatten special interests by bloodsucking the common masses, is repulsive to every instinct of the democratic soul.

The taking away of the inherent rights of personal liberty from the citizen, and the denial of home rule under state's rights to the constituent members of the Union, is anathema to the soul of the democracy.

The centralization of power in the federal government and the seduction of the people by subsidies, doles, appropriation bribes, and exercising paternalism over the domestic lives of the people, are things every white alien to the true soul of the democratic party.

That party is not searching itself for "something missing"; it is searching the ways and means to recover for the people what republican policies have taken from them—to restore to the people their missing rights and powers sneaked from them by the republican party. Next year the soul of the democratic party will give battle to win back those ancient American rights.

GEORGIA PROPERTY LOSSES.

One of the most prominent questions on the board in Georgia today is why the state's lands are showing an assessment shrinkage of values reaching close to $40,000,000?

They are the same lands that were here last year. They produced more last year than the year before and are producing yet better this year, and yet the returned value of all improved lands, will likely fall to $8, or less, this year.

Generally the same people are on the lands and as diligent in working them. Climatic conditions have not changed so much as to make the lands less inviting for tillage and residence. The decrease of living costs and the enhanced purchasing power of the dollar, taken one against the other, do not explain why our lands are less valuable now than a year ago.

When six leading members of the present general assembly, coming from separated sections of the state, were asked to elucidate the puzzle, their replies were reducible to the one answer: "Taxes."

But not the taxes levied by the state. They are so low that if they were the only taxes they would be almost a joke. Whose taxes, then? Invariably the answer is "the local taxes—county and town, but principally the county levies."

And from them all the same conclusion is inevitably drawn. There are too many counties and too many unnecessary officers and institutions that are being supported by county taxes.

But when the sweating people will realize that truth and cure its evil effects by general county mergers is the unpredictable factor in the problem.

FIGURES OF FAILURE.

It is not possible to say offhand how much value our local prohibitionists will put upon the testimony of Chief of Police Beavers, but heretofore he has been one of their favorite "friends of the cause."

Now in a letter to a local prohibition group Chief Beavers revealed that in the past two years 16,000 persons have been arrested by the city police for drunkenness, while 3,329 have been convicted in state courts here for violating the state prohibition law, and 664 automobiles containing liquor have been seized and confiscated.

These facts ought to convince any "friend of the cause" that prohibition, at least in Atlanta, falls far short of the promises upon which its adoption was based. They testify to a commendable effort on the part of the police to reduce the liquor afflictions of the community, but they much more eloquently proclaim that liquor is a common commodity in the city and that drunkenness is as much a major disorder among the people as at any period of the past.

Anything like real prohibition would reduce the drunks to a negligible percentage. On the contrary the proportion of them to the population is now greater than at any time during the licensed liquor era. Unfortunately these facts stated by Chief Beavers are the sort on which the professional prohibitionists turn their backs. They refuse to value their significance and that they argue for a revision of the policy that is producing them in steadily increasing volume. Those facts, however, are stentorian witnesses that prohibition is a legally attested failure in Atlanta.

That was a wise crack from Huey Long when he said of the cotton situation: "Something has got to be done, but damned if I know what it is!"

The American navy will not be reduced, but what it wants is not to be "traded by the pacifist cranks."

Everybody other than its pet profiteers is bored to dementia Americana by the farm board.

A jar or two of hooch in the Philadelphia navy yard doesn't seem to jar Secretary Adams any at all.

Mayor Walker is in Europe. Wonder if he will sound a Key note.

France has now a circulating library that really does circulate, since it consists of a bookshop and lending library on wheels, which has been given the name of Bibliotheque Nationale. Heretofore the Bibliotheque Nationale is the world's largest library, but it is not the world's most accessible. It is a bookshop and lending library on wheels, which has been given the name of Bibliotheque Nationale.

While exact plans are not yet determined, it is believed that the Bibliotheque will keep to regular routes, stimulate interest in books by lending them, and later offering for sale any book the borrower likes to keep.

Pastor's Resistance!

A "strike" at a wedding breakfast! The table surrounded by guests who not only refuse to be festive, but positively decline to eat, is a thing to see. The pastor, who is sitting in a chair, is looking at the guests with a look of surprise. The guests are looking at the pastor with a look of surprise. The pastor is looking at the guests with a look of surprise. The guests are looking at the pastor with a look of surprise.

That is what actually happened at an Indian village named Ennakum, reports Reuter from Calcutta. The guests objected to the wedding because they thought that, as a bridegroom already had two wives still living, he ought to be content with one. The pastor, who is sitting in a chair, is looking at the guests with a look of surprise. The guests are looking at the pastor with a look of surprise.

LOOKING AND LISTENING

BY SAM W. SMALL.

Some Salient Suggestions in the Interest of Humanity and Health.

Since I returned to my treadmill after taking "time out" to look and listen around the nation's capital, I have enjoyed very much the opportunity to see and hear the people of this country. I have seen the people of this country. I have seen the people of this country. I have seen the people of this country.

But there are other cases. Such big and disastrous epidemics are not anticipated in our time. The science of public health and the organizations for its conservation, make them highly unexpected. I have seen the people of this country. I have seen the people of this country. I have seen the people of this country.

For instance, a registered nurse of one of our most advanced Georgia communities, cites me to the matter of corporal punishment in the public schools. She cites me to the matter of corporal punishment in the public schools. She cites me to the matter of corporal punishment in the public schools.

U. S. EXPRESSES REGRET FOR CONSULATE BLAST

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Without awaiting a formal report on the bombing of the Italian vice consulate at Pittsburgh, Acting Secretary Castle, of the state department, today expressed his "regrets" over the incident to Ambassador De Martino, of Italy.

After a conference with Castle, the ambassador said no formal apology would be asked and indicated the expression of the American government's "regrets" would be satisfactory.

Prior to the meeting Castle had asked Governor Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, for a report on the incident.

Flying Trips to West Planned by Jahneke

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Two round trips into the middle west within 16 days to keep speaking engagements were planned today by Assistant Secretary Jahneke of the navy department.

The flights will total 4,319 miles and carry Jahneke to Chicago, Milwaukee, Kansas City and Chippewa Falls, Wis.

Incidentally, this will bring his aggregate of mileage as an air passenger close to the $5,000 mark, rivaling even his good friend, Secretary Hurley of the war department, who has flown thousands of miles.

CALDWELL HEARING DELAYED 'TIL MONDAY

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Criminal Judge Chester K. Harb said today he had postponed until Monday a hearing on a petition for a new trial for Rogers Caldwell, financier, convicted recently of fraudulent breach of trust. Caldwell was sentenced to serve not more than three years.

The hearing was originally set for Saturday.

Caldwell's conviction came at the end of long, drawn out proceedings involving the alleged substitution of collateral securing a $200,000 deposit of funds of Hardeman county, Tennessee. The deposit was with his investment house, Caldwell & Company.

DAVIS FAVORED LOANS TO LEA, SAYS WITNESS

Member of Executive Group of Asheville Bank Tells of Recommendations.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Wallace B. Davis personally recommended to his bank's executive committee $825,000 worth of loans to Luke Lea, of Nashville, through which the bank is alleged to have been defrauded, Dr. J. A. Sinclair, member of the committee, told the $1,300,000 fraud trial jury today.

Sinclair also identified minutes of the committee's meeting which referred to Lea's having agreed to purchase without recourse $100,000 worth of the bank's customers' notes and to arrange a $150,000 loan for the bank with the Holston Union National bank, of Knoxville, if the local bank would lend the Union Trust Company of Nashville $200,000. Previous testimony has shown such a loan to the Union Trust.

William McCants, former auditor of the Central Bank and Trust Company, testified this morning regarding his inability to reconcile a mass of credit transfers, deposits, checks and other transactions on books kept by Lea and those of the bank. The figures could not be made to agree, he said, adding that he returned Lea's balance sheet to E. P. Charlet and J. C. Bradford, cashier of the bank, and that Bradford asked Charlet to have Lea's books rechecked and furnish the bank another.

McCants said he warned Bradford that $537,000 worth of notes, given by Lea in part payment for $875,000 worth of Central Securities Corporation bonds sent to the Tennesseean, were not negotiable instruments. The securities corporation was a bank subsidiary. Previous witnesses had testified it had been paid by the bank for the bonds, although the bank never received payment from Lea except by return of $681,000 of them.

McCants said Bradford told him that was "one of Mr. Davis' transactions."

Miss Mildred Davis, bookkeeper in the bank's bond department, read entries showing Lea had a total of $876,000 worth of notes discounted at the bank during the last few months of his life.

Miss Davis said the records showed these notes largely secured by interlocking collateral, the bonds of one note-making company being secured by the stock of another of Lea's numerous corporations.

$4,000,000 REVENUE PROVIDED FOR FLORIDA

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Governor David Carrion, in a prepared statement, today said revenue provided by the legislature to meet requirements of the general revenue fund would not total more than $4,000,000 a year.

He said all state departments had cut operating expenses from 10 to 20 per cent and he added that relief would come to the taxpayer if Florida counties would make similar reductions.

'FIND THE GUN!' CRY IN BABY KILLING CASE

Ballistics May Break Down Wall of Sicilian Silence.

BY GARDNER L. BRIDGE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Ballistics may break down the wall of Sicilian silence that is shielding the Harlem baby killers. An offer of $30,000 in rewards and the combined efforts of New York's finest thus far have failed.

Now the cry is not "find the man," but "find the gun!"

Police ballistics experts have three bullets and several shotgun slugs found near where a gangland "execution car" raked a street filled with playing children, wounding five, one of them fatally, in an unsuccessful effort to exterminate a rival racketeer.

A cursory examination of the bullets and slugs established definitely that at least two guns were used, and the police say they could identify those guns almost at a glance. Unless they have been irretrievably disposed of they may form the evidence that police now lack.

Although there were numerous residents of East 107th street leaning out of their windows for a breath of air that sultry afternoon three weeks ago, no one has come forward to claim $30,000 rewards by telling what they saw.

Almost the entire detective force of the district has been turned out to find witnesses who would tell a jury what they saw.

Captain Louis Hyams, in whose district the shooting occurred, believes the case will be "broken," or solved, but he is none too confident of subsequent convictions, he indicated.

"We will eventually get the fellows in the car," he said, "but that's as far as we can go. Then it will be up to the people to come forward."

Asked how many men were assigned to the case, Captain Hyams replied: "There are 10,000 men on the case. Everybody is interested, and I suppose there are about 5,000 citizens working on it too."

Rising Temperature Is Seen in Forecast

Rainfall excess for month..... 18 in.
Rainfall deficiency for year..... 11.83 in.
Max. temp. Thursday..... 88 deg.
Max. temp. year ago..... 84 deg.

After passing its coolest August day since 1887 Thursday, Atlanta today faces the prospect of fair and slightly warmer weather, although there is no indication of a return to sweltering mid-summer heat, it was said at the office of the United States weather bureau here. At 5:30 o'clock Thursday morning the official thermometer went down to 58 degrees, setting the lowest mark for August for this city in 44 years. The lowest August thermometer reading on record is 55 degrees.

Today's temperature probably will not go above the 85-degree mark, it was said, and while there is no prospect of rain in this vicinity, it is not believed a run of higher temperatures is in sight. A year ago Thursday the low reading was 59 degrees.

PADGETT JURY STILL STRIVING FOR VERDICT

VALDOSTA, Ga., Aug. 13.—The eighteenth day of the trial of Homer Padgett was passed today with the jury still deliberating the fate of the youth charged with murder in connection with the death of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Browning in August of 1930.

The jury passed its forty-eighth hour of deadlock at 5:30 this afternoon, and during that time it has made no request of the court for additional instruction, nor has the court made any official inquiry of the jury about the probability of reaching a verdict.

It seems to be well understood now that the jury is deadlocked, 11 against 1, but just which one is holding out and what the difference is, has not been determined. While this is rumored, there is no definite or authentic information on the subject.

SHOT BY ASSAILANT, DOCTOR NEAR DEATH

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(UP)—Dr. Milton Thomashevsky, Brooklyn surgeon who was shot through the left lung last night by his assistant, Miss Agnes Birdseye, who then killed herself, was reported near death in a hospital tonight.

The 30-year-old assistant attempted to kill her employer, police said, after she heard that he was planning to marry the daughter of a Manhattan lawyer.

Miss Birdseye had been employed as his assistant for seven years and had been in love with him since she first met him, police said.

She frequently flung herself at him, it has been learned, and quarreled with him when he did not respond. In one of these quarrels, detectives said, she told Dr. Thomashevsky that "either I'll have you or no one else will."

1 KILLED, 5 INJURED IN COLUMBUS CRASH

COLUMBUS, Ga., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Samuel Alexander, 21, was killed; Miss Julia Jones, 16, was critically injured and four other persons were under treatment here today following an automobile crash on the highway while the party was returning from a picnic.

Alexander, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Alexander, of this city, suffered a fractured skull, dying in a local hospital shortly after the accident. Miss Jones' skull was fractured, hospital attendants said.

Others injured were Miss Mary Louise Jones, 20; John Barr, 27, who suffered severe body bruises, and Miss Margaret Jones, 18, and Amon, who escaped with minor injuries.

GOTHAM SCHOOLS COST NEAR MILLION DAILY

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(AP)—It will cost the city of New York about $1,000,000 a day to run its public schools next year.

The board of education has adopted a tentative budget of $146,338,848 for next year, an increase of almost $6,000,000 to allow for 20,000 more pupils and an increase in teachers.

Carrying charges on buildings and other expenses will bring the total outlay to $212,000,000.

TRIAL OF ALFONSO DEBATED IN MADRID

MADRID, Aug. 13.—Whether or not to bring former King Alfonso and other figures of the former monarchy to trial was the subject of an animated discussion in the national assembly tonight.

Manuel Cordero, socialist leader, demanded that Alfonso and others "be brought to trial to prove that justice and law are applicable to everybody."

Hoover Dam Builders Start Rehiring Men

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Aug. 13.—(AP) Six Companies Incorporated, contractors at Hoover dam, began employing men today to resume construction.

Work was suspended by the company last Sunday as the result of a strike of 135 men over wages and living conditions. About 1,300 men were thrown out of employment.

Walker Young, construction engineer for the federal bureau of reclamation, requested resumption of activities.

United States Marshall J. H. Fulmer placed the Boulder project reservation under what he termed "semi-martial" law. Admittance today was by special pass only.

AIMS OF FASCISM TOLD BY AUTHOR

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Dr. Luigi Villari, Italian author and former diplomat, told members of the Institute of Politics tonight that fascism does not represent a challenge to capitalism, but merely corrects the defects and deficiencies of the system of private enterprise.

In his second and last scheduled talk on "Economics of Fascism," the Italian author said fascism does not reject capitalism if by capitalism is meant individual enterprise and the possession of means of production by private individuals. He said in a country as poor in natural resources as Italy, the form of economic discipline laid down by fascism is "absolutely indispensable" because such resources as are possessed could not be fully exploited without it.

Dr. Villari said fascism and communism are directly opposite, and that unless communism is adopted by other countries beside Russia it is not likely to survive there.

UNEMPLOYMENT LOAN PROPOSED BY PINCHOT

National Economy Program Urged To Stabilize U. S. Business.

DETROIT, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Gifford Pinchot, governor of Pennsylvania, in an address here today, advocated federal unemployment aid through the floating of a huge government loan, and a national economy program to stabilize business conditions.

Governor Pinchot said his remarks were not "a bid for the republican presidential nomination."

Private charity and public works, Governor Pinchot said, afford only a partial solution of the unemployment problem that will be faced during the coming winter, although these agencies should be required to furnish all the aid possible. Local and state governments, he said, are financially unable to furnish the proper aid.

Governor Pinchot said the "fundamental remedy" for business depression lies in the "substitution of planned and orderly development of our resources, our production and our institutions for the haphazard and unbalanced growth which has led to this depression."

Wadley's First Bale.

WADLEY, Ga., Aug. 13.—T. G. Woods brought in the first bale of cotton to be ginned here this season on Wednesday. It was bought by the S. C. Evans Company, bringing 7 1/2 cents a pound. Wadley is in the drought area and it is not expected that a third of a normal crop of cotton will be made this season and the corn crop is practically a total failure.

To Stop Itching In Two Minutes

This formula for skin diseases is astounding the most skeptical in the marvelous way it heals severe cases of eczema, tetter, ringworm, itch and athlete's foot. The minute it touches the sore you feel a cooling, soothing sensation; in a few days you marvel at how your skin has healed. If you suffer with skin diseases of any kind, get from any druggist a 60c box of Tetterine, and let relief or get your money back.—(adv.)

Film Houses "Violate" Long Lost City Law

Every motion picture house in Atlanta is violating the law, it was learned Thursday. They are using motor-driven machines in defiance of an archaic law prohibiting them. Members of the electric lights committee of council Thursday afternoon prepared a new ordinance legalizing the machine age for picture houses, and also set a hearing on a proposal to force house owners to provide an air cleansing system for booths and other conveniences. The hearing is slated for September 3.

EMPLOYEES TO AID FIGHT ON LOBBIES

Co-operation of the City and County Employees' organization in a proposed investigation of alleged lobbying activities of city employees in an effort to push certain bills through the Georgia assembly was promised Thursday by Fred E. Stephens, president of the workers.

The statement of Stephens came as an aftermath of charges hurled Wednesday at a meeting of the Atlanta board of firemasters that from 15 to 20 employees were present at the assembly session in an effort to obtain passage of a general civil service law affecting all employees not now so protected.

Stephens said his organization is supporting the paper, that he is the only one authorized to push it, that if other lobbyists are appearing in its behalf he does not know it and that the organization favors the paper and wants it enacted, "not to retain the jobs of any person that is not needed, but merely to protect necessary employees from political discrimination."

DEALERS MOURN LOSS OF KEITH, BRIMBERRY

Resolutions deploring the death of William H. Brimberry, vice president of the Capital City Company and of William E. Keith, district manager for the Grigsby-Grunow Company, both of whom were killed in an airplane accident last Sunday at Cincinnati, as they were taking off for Atlanta, have been adopted by the Atlanta Radio Dealers' Association. Characters of both men are paid warm tribute in the text of the resolutions, which were drawn up by a committee composed of A. E. Foster, T. H. Fulton and Henry L. Reid.

SCHOOL BOARD FAILS TO OBTAIN QUORUM

Move To Have Body Declared Separate Entity Is Dropped.

Hope of finding a plan to divorce the Atlanta board of education from council, making it a separate entity and clothing with complete authority to raise and expend its own funds in time for action of the Georgia assembly was abandoned Thursday afternoon when a quorum of the board failed to appear at a special meeting called for consideration of a report of the legislative committee.

After an hour's waiting for a quorum, W. W. Gaines, president, announced the session was called off and did not set the date for another meeting.

Only three of the eight members needed to constitute a quorum appeared, those present being Gaines, Dr. Noah Baird and C. O. Johnson.

One measure is now pending before the assembly providing that Atlanta shall allocate a minimum of 20 per cent each year to schools. The law is now 26 per cent. It does not reduce the size of the board, nor does it divorce the board from council.

The legislative committee's report in addition to providing for divorce also planned a reduction in the size of the board and for their election from the city at large.

MORTICIAN SYSTEM ADOPTED BY GRADY

The bodies of patients who die at Grady hospital will be distributed impartially among Atlanta funeral directors, under a new system adopted Thursday by Superintendent John B. Franklin at a meeting with representatives of local undertaking establishments. An alphabetical list of undertakers has been drawn up and one is to be selected weekly under the new plan to take charge of patients whose relatives fail to specify the undertaker desired.

The same undertaker who receives bodies during a given week will also answer emergency ambulance calls made by the hospital when the Grady ambulance is not available, it was announced. City and county undertakers have endorsed the new system.

Moss Garrison Sues Three Police Chiefs

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Moss E. Garrison, former Atlantian, recently acquitted on a charge of murdering Hazel Bradshaw, his sweetheart, filed suit today for $50,000 damages from former Police Chiefs Perry J. Henbough and Arthur Hill, Acting Chief James Patrick, half a dozen police officers and two bonding companies.

Garrison bases his suit on alleged "third degree" methods employed by the police during the time he was an inmate of the city jail.

$200 REWARD OFFERED FOR SLAYER OF GOB

Governor Richard R. Russell Jr. Thursday authorized a reward of $200 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayers of Grady Williams, 21, sailor, who was found dead on the Deane Bridge road, near Augusta, last week.

The proclamation offering the reward was issued by the governor upon a request made by letter from Solicitor-General George Hains, of the Augusta superior court.

Williams, the son of the Rev. J. N. Williams, of Roswell, Ga., was widely known in Augusta. A man and a woman have been held for questioning by Sheriff Gary Whittle in connection with the slaying.

W. C. HARPER, 66, DIES IN ALABAMA

W. C. Harper, 66, former president of the old Union National Stockyards of Atlanta and formerly a director in the Central Bank and Trust Company here, died suddenly Thursday afternoon while visiting relatives in Roanoke, Ala.

For more than 40 years Mr. Harper resided in Atlanta, coming to this city from Roanoke, Ala., in the '80s. He was a native of the Alabama city. He retired from active business several months ago on account of ill health.

Mr. Harper was an active member of the Shrine, as well as of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. He was a member of the Second Baptist church of Atlanta. He is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Wallace Bonner, Mrs. Ed Hearn, and Mrs. E. M. Yates; and two brothers, Conner and Frank Harper, of Roanoke and Rock Mills, Ala. WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Repeat a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

House Roommates Vote Together

Although they roomed together during the special session, and are rooming together again at the regular session, it was not until Thursday that Representative Glenn Thomas, of Wayne, and John Lewis, of Hancock, voted together on a single piece of major legislation. Both voted not to table the seven-cent gas tax bill. Thomas is chairman of the house committee on reapportionment and Lewis is chairman of general judiciary number one in the same body.

penny in order that the schools might continue to operate.

Speaking largely against diversion, which he said had been killed several times in the special and several more in the present session, Representative Battle declared that if it were to be approved now supporters of this plan would return here next session asking for a $100,000,000 road bond issue on the ground "that you are not building the roads promised to the people."

"Not only that," Battle said, "but the federal government has advanced federal aid funds to provide employment. Is it good faith with the United States to take more than $3,000,000 advanced for this purpose and take as much from the highway department to cripple an effort to provide work for unemployed Georgians?"

It is generally expected that the special investigating committee of the house, named after Representative Culpepper had declared that charges made against certain state officials indicated the necessity of impeachment trials, will make its report today.

"While members declined to say whether it would contain opinion among assembly leaders that it would not call for impeachment of any one, but probably would contain a severe reprimand of Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture, 'for looseness in his administration of department funds.' There was also a suggestion that the committee, either in majority or minority report, would ask that Talmadge's bond be sued for the $10,000 lost in hog speculation."

The increased veto power of the governor, approved 172 to 8, would permit the executive to veto any item of the appropriations bill without vetoing the entire measure. Speaking of the bill, Representative Culpepper, chairman of the appropriations committee, declared "this is the best piece of major legislation that has been passed during this session."

2 FULTON BILLS PRESENTED HOUSE

Along with the introduction of bills to create a six-ward form of government for the city of Atlanta and another requiring election by council of all department heads now named by committees, the water hike bill was reported to the house with a recommendation that it pass. Representative McRae filed a minority report which makes the bill a contested one subject to action of the rules committee.

Representatives Still and Eckford signed the new bills, the first of which reduces the number of wards from 13 to 6. Representative Leathers, of DeKalb, protested this bill.

The senate Thursday passed the bill introduced by Senator Reagan extending the term of the mayor of Atlanta from two to four years and providing that he may be elected to succeed himself for only one term. It is largely for the purpose of clarifying the law now under attack in the courts.

The municipal government committee Wednesday night approved the bill to raise the water rates 25 percent, but adopted the house substitute for the bill which has already passed the senate. It was necessary Thursday for the committee to reconsider its action and approve the senate bill.

Neither bill carries a referendum clause although George Eckford, of the Fulton delegation, said he would ask that one be tacked on when the bill comes to a vote.

The rate increase, protested by McRae also, would be for two years and is for the purpose of meeting a deficiency in school funds.

The senate adopted Thursday the bill of Senator Weekes and Reagan increasing the governing board of the city of Atlanta from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000.

GANDHI REFUSES TO GO TO LONDON

consider the decisions of the impending conference binding upon his followers, and it is considered likely that if the conference fails to grant the principal nationalist demands, the mahatma will sound the call for a new fight against England.

"I need not say what a great blow it has been to me that I am not to go to London," Gandhi said. "I know what it will mean to Lord Irwin and I know also what a severe disappointment it will be to my numerous friends in England, but the decision not to go became inevitable. I had hoped against hope justice would be done, even at the eleventh hour."

"My request for the appointment of an impartial tribunal to adjudicate the breaches in the Delhi pact was in my opinion incredibly simple. If there was a contract between the government and the congress surely the rules governing all contracts must be applicable, the more so in my opinion because the contract is between a great government and a great organization claiming to represent the whole nation."

It was believed that Lord Willingdon, possibly at the behest of Prime Minister MacDonald, would make fresh overtures to Gandhi to go to London. It was also regarded as probable that important Indian nationalists would intercede with the mahatma.

LONDON DEPLORES WORD OF MAHATMA'S DECISION

LONDON, Aug. 13.—(P)—Profound regret was expressed tonight in many quarters here over advice from Bombay that Mahatma Gandhi was not to participate in the second Indian round table conference.

There was no disposition to minimize the effect of the absence of Indian and nationalist leaders at the resumed negotiations. When the news first reached London today some asked whether it would be worth while to hold the conference without the Indian nationalists.

Although no formal statement was made, it was learned the official view was that the conference must be held. It was pointed out that the last round table conference accomplished much without representation from the Indian congress, and that there was no reason to believe that the forthcoming negotiations would not accomplish still more in view of the vast amount of preliminary work which already has been done.

Many British statesmen feel that, judging from past experience, the mahatma's "final decisions" are sometimes not entirely final and there is the possibility that before the conference finishes its labors some change in the Indian situation, or in Gandhi's interpretation of it, may prompt him to come to London.

The news of the mahatma's decision arrived too late today for comment in the press, but experienced commentators tonight felt that it was safe to prophesy the majority of the newspapers would regret the new development, although insisting the conference might yet perform a useful service.

The extreme conservative papers were expected to take the attitude, which was already adopted in certain circles tonight, that Gandhi had finally proven himself to be one with whom it is impossible to engage in negotiations, and that it was time again to raise the cry that Great Britain should either "govern in India or get out."

"You cannot breed contempt for one law without breeding contempt for all laws," Key also praised appropriation of $750,000 by Hamilton county for operation and maintenance of Chattahoochee schools, saying if Fulton county would adopt the same attitude toward Atlanta schools, fiscal worries of the Atlanta system would be ended.

"If we interpreted the Hamilton county allocation in terms of Fulton county and the latter's ability to pay, Atlanta schools would get from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 a year," he said. "Fulton county does not contribute a dollar to Atlanta schools now, notwithstanding the fact that Atlanta taxpayers contribute liberally to maintenance of schools in Fulton county outside the limits of Atlanta."

"Action of Hamilton county is in no way unusual, as the same amount was appropriated last year."

FULTON LEVIES PREVENT
AID TO SCHOOLS, HENDRIX

Walter C. Hendricks, chairman of the Fulton county commission, Thursday in commenting upon the remarks of Mayor James L. Key in an address at Chattahoochee in which the mayor compared the financial maintenance accorded the city schools of Chattahoochee by Hamilton county, Tennessee, with the situation in Atlanta and Fulton county, said:

"Fulton county levies taxes for a specific purpose. If it is legally arranged so that Fulton county may levy taxes for Atlanta school purposes, which would have to be through constitutional amendment, we would not hesitate to do so. If Chattahoochee receives money from its county for city school purposes that is evidence enough that that city and county have a different statutory arrangement than that in effect with regard to Atlanta and Fulton county."

The Atlanta mayor's remarks were to the effect that if Fulton county supported Atlanta schools on the same ratio as the financial aid given to Chattahoochee by Hamilton county, this city would have from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 more to operate its municipal educational system.

SENATE SUPPORTS REORGANIZATION

Administration Strength Rolls Up in Voting on Russell Measure.

BY BEN COOPER.

Victory on victory was piled up Thursday for the administration as disputes over various sections of the departmental reorganization bill were decided by the senate in favor of the measure. Senate consideration will be concluded today, it was indicated Thursday afternoon when the senate adjourned at 9 o'clock this morning after disposing of nearly half of the bill.

With the exception of one major change in the article relating to the department of natural resources, the senate is adopting the bill section by section practically as it passed the house. A number of amendments approved by the upper branch of the general assembly were minor in character and were offered mainly for the purpose of clarifying and correcting technical portions of the measure.

Sponsors of the bill won an important point when the senate adopted, with minor amendments, the article abolishing the board of health and setting up a department of public health. The board of control for eleemosynary institutions, adopted after several skirmishes on amendments, also was considered a major victory for the administration. The final test of the administration's strength will come probably late today, however, when the section-by-section consideration is finished and the bill, as amended, is up for the final vote on adoption of the entire bill, because it is expected, an effort to defeat the whole bill will be made by its opponents.

Senator Hugh Peterson, chairman of the special committee which drew the bill after investigating the executive branch of the government, took the floor to advocate adoption of the various sections.

Follows Earlier Plan.

The senate change in the department of natural resources set up is in line with a senate bill adopted several days ago by the upper house, merging the forestry and geology departments. The same and fish department was left out of the bill by the senate, with the exception of one amendment calling for appointment of a director of game and fish by the governor for a term concurrent with the chief executive, the present commissioner, Peter S. Twitty, to serve out his term.

At its meeting Thursday night the house committee on the state of the republic also approved unanimously the senate bill providing for a merger of the geology and forestry departments. Although it precipitated considerable discussion, the action of the house committee was accepted as an indication of what the lower branch will do when the reorganization bill comes to conference.

The department of public health article was adopted with amendments allowing the secretary of the board of health to serve as director of the department until July 1, 1933, changing the name of the organization which is to recommend candidates for medical director from the Georgia Medical Society to the Medical Association of Georgia, and authorizing appointment of an advisory board of five to ten members.

An effort by Senator Howard Ennis, of the 20th, to preserve the board of trustees of the Milledgeville state hospital and transfer to that board the management of the school for mentally defective lost by a vote of 21 to 17.

Section Is Clarified.

The senate was in the midst of passing on the bill of regents article when adjournment was voted. Amendments adding Georgia Military College to the bill's list of university units and clarifying and correcting several sections were adopted, but efforts by Senator Hamilton McWhorter, of the 50th, to increase the board of regents from 11 to 12 members and place the headquarters of the board and its secretary at Athens instead of the state capitol, as well as to provide that T. W. Reed, secretary of the board of trustees of the University of Georgia be retained as secretary of the board of regents, lost.

Senator N. A. Pratt, of the 41st, offered a substitute to the board of regents article changing the setup in several particulars. The substitute will come up this morning after section by section consideration of the article and amendments is completed.

The highway committee of the senate Thursday afternoon approved a bill by Senator John Wesley Weeks, of the 24th, providing for drivers' licenses and severe penalties for violation of the license law.

GOVERNORS BEAT MOVE TO DESTROY COTTON SURPLUS

time, but Harry D. Wilson, commissioner of agriculture and president of the National Association for Increased Use of Cotton, termed the plan impractical.

W. D. Anderson, president of the Bibb Manufacturing Company, Macon, Ga., one of the largest textile concerns in the south, said the proposal furnishes "the cap shaft for all the other wild, futile and half-brained proposals that have hitherto been proposed for the relief of the farmer."

Officials of the Oklahoma Cotton Growers' Association, however, said they favored the farm board's plan. Edward S. Butler, New Orleans cotton leader, said the question of enforcement of the plan "is a very serious one," and asked, "How can 2,000,000 cotton planters be expected to destroy one-third of their crops?"

The farm board proposal, described as a drastic effort to restore the price of cotton, included the order with 1,300,000 bales of cotton if southern planters would destroy one-third of their present crop.

From Governor Bilbo, who had offered a suggestion of leaving every third row unpicker, a telegram was received by the board urging that something be done quickly "to save the farmers and the south from distress."

He said "heroic methods must be applied and whatever is done must be done quickly."

With the unfavorable reaction from several of the governors having been published, Chairman Stone and Carl Williams, cotton member of the board, changed the governors of cotton states with direct responsibility for organizing the suggested campaign to destroy a third of the crop.

Governor Sterling received a communication from M. H. Wolfe, general manager of the Farmers' Marketing Association of America, declaring the federal farm board "is in no position to ask the farmers to destroy one-third of their cotton crop to boost prices." He suggested that it would be better to plow up the farm board.

Reaction outside of governmental circles quite generally followed the sentiment expressed with the exception that they were largely against immediate destruction of property.

"My suggestion is that the proper approach to the question is through an international congress, following in December, with forecasts of international sugar congress."

Governor Russell telegraphed the farm board that the people of Georgia and the south will be glad to cooperate wholeheartedly in any feasible plan to improve the price of cotton, but made it clear that he did not approve the proposal outlined in the board's message to cotton-growing states, his secretary, Lehman Anderson, said.

"The people of Georgia and the south will be glad to cooperate wholeheartedly with the federal farm board in any feasible plan to improve the price of cotton," the governor said, but seriously doubt whether it is practicable or wise to plow up one-third of the cotton crop, much of which has already been gathered.

Under existing conditions the federal farm board should immediately cease all talk of placing the stabilization cotton on the market and should definitely declare that the cotton they are holding will be sold through the channels of trade any time in the near future.

Other leaders of the cotton trade in Atlanta and Georgia farm experts concurred with the governor in these expressed opinions.

H. Lane Young, executive vice president of the Citizens and Southern National Bank, declared the plan was not practical and will not work.

"I do not see why the farmer should be called upon to bear the entire burden," Mr. Young declared, "and the plan should be shared by the cotton merchants and speculators. The plan is not practical and will not work."

A resolution condemning the plan was suggested by members of the Georgia Agricultural Association class at Griffin today.

Judge Peter W. Meldrum, president of the association, called the farm board's proposal absurd. He said Georgia agriculture is depressed along with other industries.

"Depression will pass," he declared, "but legislation and government interference is not the cure. Destroying American cotton would only benefit foreign cotton growers. We will not destroy a third of our textile mills."

"This is about the craziest plan I ever heard of," declared J. M. Hughes, secretary of the State Chamber of Commerce. "It would be a good idea to grow less cotton, but it is too late now and absurd to destroy what the farmer has already grown."

H. P. Stuckey, director of the Georgia experiment station, said it would "be a good thing for the cotton growers to destroy one-third of their crop now so far as prices this season are concerned." The suggestion came too late, he said.

Plan Scored by Amorous.

"Another phase of the question to consider," Stuckey declared, "is the psychological effect such action would have on foreign production. For a long time America has largely dominated the world market in cotton. To take this drastic step just in advance of the planting season in the southern hemisphere might stimulate foreign competition."

Martin Amorous, of Marietta, cotton expert and farmer, declared that the plan could not be enforced. He said farmers would do as they pleased, just as they do in the matter of acreage.

Amorous pointed out that many farmers have borrowed money on their cotton and "cannot morally or legally destroy any part of that collateral for loans."

"If the farm board will declare a definite policy after its various unfortunate adventures with cotton it will have a settling effect on the trade," said J. Hope Tignor, secretary of the Atlanta Commercial Exchange. "If it will adopt a plan and stick to it, instead of making various wild stabs, it will do about all it can do in the present unfortunate circumstances."

Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture in Georgia, characterized the proposal as "so much nonsense."

He suggested that congress should appoint a committee to investigate the farm board to determine if it is holding as much cotton as it claims. He said he did not believe the board was holding one-third as much cotton as it claims to have on hand.

Disapproved by Jordan.

Disapproval of the proposal by the federal farm board that southern cotton growers plow up one-third of the present growing crop was contained in a statement Thursday from Harvie Jordan, well-known cotton expert, who asserted that such a procedure would cost the planters $100,000,000 without any guarantee by the farm board for reimbursement.

In the opinion of Mr. Jordan execution of the suggestion of the board would be a "dangerous precedent." His statement follows:

"Cotton is second to food as a necessity among the civilized nations of the world and is too valuable a commodity for ruthless destruction as suggested by the federal farm board. The present growing crop to date has cost the cotton growers approximately $300,000,000 and if they now undertook to plow up and destroy one-third of the planted area it would mean a net loss to them of $100,000,000 without any guarantee by the farm board for reimbursement."

Even if the harvesting of only two-thirds of the present cotton would mean an enhancement of market values, it would not be sound policy to deliberately destroy the other third. The wholesale destruction of value property over one-third of the area of this nation by whatever means and for whatever cause would be a dangerous precedent to establish by the advice and co-operation of agencies representing the federal and state governments.

"A somewhat similar situation to the present confronted the cotton growing industry in the fall months of 1904. In that year the south produced 13,500,000 bales, about 3,000,000 bales in excess of the largest yield ever previously harvested. The markets became completely demoralized and prices quickly dropped to less than 5 cents per pound at interior points in December, with forecasts of much lower prices by the cotton trade. The largest convention of cotton farmers, bankers and merchants which ever assembled in the south met at New Orleans on January 10, 1905, and for three days earnestly discussed the situation and planned a sound and constructive program for the relief of the cotton grower."

"The Southern Cotton Association was organized. It was elected its president, and a whirlwind organization of that state and county was rapidly whipped into effective co-operative effort. With the loyal co-operation of southern bankers the bulk of the crop was stored and financed in local warehouses and on the farm, instituting the greatest holding movement ever undertaken in the south. A county to county campaign for drastic acreage reduction was inaugurated the first time and the area was cut from 31,000,000 to 27,000,000 acres. In six months, or in July 1905, cotton was selling all over the south at 11 cents per pound or more than 100 per cent advance over the previous January prices.

"In February 1905, county meetings were held in 600 counties and agreements reached for every grower to haul one-third of his cotton being held, to a centralized point in each county and destroy it by fire. I was bombarded by telegrams to name the date for the holocaust upon which these hundreds of cotton bonfires should stand the staple up in flames, smoke and ashes. I promptly demanded the plan as unsound and unworthy of the manhood of the south and with the co-operation of my leadership each state saved the south from that stigma of desperation."

"The solution of the present problem confronting the farmers can be solved by the same methods employed in 1905 and the sooner a definite and drastic program for relief is undertaken by sound and constructive co-operative efforts of the farmers, bankers and other representative allied business interests the quicker will the return to normal conditions be experienced. The farm board policies and efforts confined to only 10 per cent of the cotton growing industry has proven impotent and totally inadequate to solve the problems intended by the federal marketing act."

"The American Cotton Association, an independent farmer, banker and merchant organization is now undertaking to call a nationwide cotton conference of all affiliated interests, at New Orleans October 1st to 3rd."

"If competent leaders from all over the south will assemble at that conference and determine upon a definite constructive program of relief, such as has been successfully done in the past, the present crisis in the cotton industry can be overcome and the situation relieved. Large scale competition by the mills of the world is certain to be revived in the future and the problem of the growers now is to get the coming crop financed and held off the market while the cotton acreage for next year should either be reduced 50 per cent or a moratorium declared to plant no cotton in 1932."

L. B. Jackson, former director of the state bureau of markets, in a letter to James C. Stone, chairman of the association, called the public Thursday, suggested a practical "workable solution" to the cotton problem that the 1,300,000 bales now held by the farm board be manufactured into burlap for wrapping cotton, sugar, fertilizer, potatoes and many other things now wrapped in burlap and produced in India.

"Such a policy announced by Mr. Jackson said, 'would free the market of fear, and this would leave the cotton with no cotton but with cotton burlap, which will eventually be consumed in the place of foreign jute and burlap.'"

FEDERAL BOARD LEAVES PLAN UP TO GOVERNORS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(AP)—The farm board today left to the governors of the southern states the responsibility for carrying out its proposal that a third of the present cotton crop be destroyed to prevent an economic disaster in that section.

This announcement was made as it began receiving the reactions of the state executives to its plan, not all of which were favorable. At least four governors said they regarded the proposition as impractical in application. The cotton trade also was skeptical.

In its proposal, announced last night, the board pledged itself in return for the destruction of a third of the southern planters, to withhold its stabilization supplies of cotton from the market for a year.

Prices moved upward today in the wake of the suggestion, after falling last Saturday to the lowest level in years in response to a government estimate that the 1931 crop would aggregate 15,584,000 bales, much more than had been expected.

Chairman Stone, of the board, and Carl Williams, cotton member, promised every carryover in carrying out the proposal, but emphasized that the plan's success depended entirely upon the attitude of the 14 governors to whom it was addressed.

They predicted a gain of millions of dollars in increased prices if the plan goes through. This in addition to other big savings by reason of a smaller crop to cultivate and the ultimate effect on future markets.

"It is up to the people of the south," said Williams, "if they want to accept, a drastic remedy for this situation."

The board met for a short time today and studied the market quotations and newspapers for reaction to their plan.

It was said at the White House today President Hoover had no part in formulating the board's plan of destroying cotton.

Chairman Stone estimates that addition of the proposed wool reserve in removing 4,000,000 bales from the current crop.

The New York Cotton Exchange opened $1.25 a bale higher on Liverpool's favorable reaction to the proposal and closed stronger, $1.40 to $1.55 a bale higher. In New Orleans net advance of 27 to 28 points were recorded.

As these increased prices were being studied, a telegram was received from Representative Patman, democrat, Texas, who urged the board to join with him in a plea for a special session of congress to set minimum prices at 20 cents a pound for cotton and $1 a bushel for wheat.

PROPOSAL IS SCORED

BY W. D. ANDERSON

MACON, Ga., Aug. 13.—(AP)—W. D. Anderson, president of the Bibb Manufacturing Company, one of the largest textile concerns in the south, today said the federal farm board's proposal to destroy a third of the present cotton crop furnishes the "cap shaft for all the other wild, futile and half-brained proposals that have hitherto been proposed for the relief of the farmer."

He said the plan was impossible of attainment and showed that "desperate folly men in governmental relation will be tempted to go when bogged down in a quagmire of failure."

Mr. Anderson's statement follows: "The reported offer of the federal farm board to withhold from sale its three million bales of cotton provided the farmers will proceed to plow up every third row of the growing crop furnishes the cap shaft for all the other wild, futile and half-brained ideas that have hitherto been proposed for the relief of the farmer."

"Granting the economic soundness of the idea to do which would violate sane thinking, the proposal can be nothing but a futile gesture because of the utter impossibility of attainment.

"Its worst feature is the cruelty of such a suggestion at this time to a people who are on the unfortunate position occupied by the cotton farmer. It is as cruel as putting a dish of tempting food just beyond the reach of a starving man who is so weak and emaciated that he is unable to move from his prostrate position."

"It shows to what desperate folly men in governmental relation will be tempted to go when bogged down in a quagmire of failure in an attempt to do in the name of the government a thing they would not think of trying to do in the ordinary course of business."

"We may now look for some novel and fantastic nostrums to be proposed when the congress convenes, hatched, as before, in the socialistic west, and there will be the danger that an administration already in the throes of defeat and stuporous loss of taxpayer money will grasp at anything that offers escape."

Says Crop Won't Be Picked.

Doubt that the south will pick and market 15,500,000 bales of cotton as predicted by the United States department of agriculture in its recent crop estimate was expressed Thursday in a commentary upon the government's method of forecasting the yield, made public by I. V. Shannon, statistician of Farmer & Beane, local members of the New York Cotton Exchange.

In thus expressing his opinion, the local expert predicted his reasons upon the belief that even if such a large crop were produced it would cost more to pick, gin, bale and sell the low grades than can be obtained for them.

"Such prices as are now current," Mr. Shannon asserted, "have prevailed only three times in the history of the industry in this country, or since 1798. In one of these periods, 1843 to 1848, middling cotton sold at 5 cents in New York and 4 1/2 to 4 3/8 in New Orleans. Again, in 1897-98 middling sold at 5 3/8 in New York and 4 3/4 in New Orleans. The third time was during the embargo against shipments to Europe in 1914. December contracts sold down to 6.65 in New York and middling to 6.50 in New Orleans."

"I believe that history will repeat itself in this instance, as in former years, and that current low prices offer the opportunity of a lifetime for investment or speculative buying for those willing and able to hold their cotton a reasonable time. It is certain the south cannot produce cotton at these prices and that a material advance must occur sooner or later to induce the farmer to harvest even the greater portion of this crop, or to produce another adequate for world needs."

Why not swim, too?

A clear skin and a strong body add a touch of loveliness to any man or woman

Regardless of whether you swim or not it is human for one to want to be more attractive. Often one can gain a clear skin and a strong body—the kind that makes you feel like your natural self again—simply by adding New Strength to the blood.

When your vitality is low and you feel weak, don't care to eat, have lost weight, your skin is sallow, pale or broken out with pimples or boils, you may be sure that your blood is in need of New Strength.

Rich, red blood for New Strength. Rich, red blood plays a dominant role in maintaining health. It builds and sustains... removes impurities from the tissues... gives strength. When you add New Strength to the blood and bring it back to normal, your whole body is invigorated and strengthened... you are better able to resist infection and disease... your skin clears up... your cheeks become rosy... more vitality and pep naturally follow. You know a clear skin comes from within.

S.S.S. makes rich, red blood. S.S.S. is famed for its ability to build New Strength in the blood. It does it safely and effectively. One of its distinct advantages is that it is composed of fresh vegetable medicinal ingredients in concentrated form. Indeed, it is Mother Nature's formula. It has an enviable record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality in the blood—this New Strength naturally makes for better health and happiness.

S.S.S. is sold in two sizes. The larger size contains 20 oz. and represents a price saving.

If constipated, try Klok-Lax... it "acts on time."

HOLLINS BELLES VISIT HERE

Luncheons, Teas, Dinners Fete Youthful Visitors

Centering the interest of the college contingent is a group of Atlanta belles and a quintet of visitors who attended Hollins College, Hollins, Va., and are forming the inspiration for a series of informal social affairs. Misses Oline Kelly and Sara Brown, of Columbus, Ga., are the guests of Miss Peggy Selman at her home on Penn avenue, who was recently extensively entertained at their guest in Columbus. Vivacious Miss Louise Middleton, of Monroe, N. C., who arrived yesterday to visit Miss Anne Wynne Fleming at her home on Seventeenth street, needs no introduction to the younger set in Atlanta, for she has often been entertained here as the guest of Miss Fleming.

Another lovely visitor who has been admired by Atlanta's college set on a previous visit is Miss Peggy Penick, of Montclair, N. J., who is the guest of Miss Patty Porter at her home on the Prado. A charming blonde with a sparkling personality, Miss Penick was much in demand when she visited Miss Lydia Hoke, Patty Porter and Jean Lucas in turn during the Easter vacation last spring. Miss Penick has been visiting Miss Lydia Hoke at the summer home of her parents at Highlands, N. C., and when Miss Hoke became ill she immediately accepted the invitation to come to Atlanta again for a visit to Miss Porter. This eastern belle will leave tomorrow for her home in New Jersey and will be accompanied by Misses Jean Lucas and Liza Tway, the former a schoolmate at Hollins and the latter a friend made during her previous visit.

Miss Polly Webb, of Statesville, N. C., is visiting here for the first time as the guest of Miss Louise Candler at Callanwolde, the beautiful estate of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Howard Candler, and will be honor guest at a round of delightful parties.

For Miss Webb.

Today's social calendar carries two parties for Miss Polly Webb, the guest of Miss Candler. Miss Mary Elinor Kemp will be hostess at a small luncheon at her home on Springdale road, inviting only a small group of former Hollins students. Covers will be placed for Miss Webb, Miss Candler, Misses Patty Porter, Frances Boykin, Jean Lucas and Miss Kemp.

This afternoon Miss Jean Lucas will entertain at an informal tea at the Piedmont Driving Club at 5 o'clock as a compliment to Miss Webb. Covers will be placed for only girls who attended Hollins College. Yesterday Miss Candler entertained at a luncheon at the Piedmont Driving Club in honor of her guest, inviting 14 guests.

Miss Selman's Party.
Miss Peggy Selman will be hostess at luncheon at the Atlanta Athletic Club tomorrow in honor of her visitors, Miss Sara Brown and Miss Oline Kelly, who will remain in Atlanta for a week. Invited for this affair are Misses Kelly, Brown, Louise Candler, Polly Webb, of Statesville, N. C.; Peggy Underwood, Anne Wynne Fleming, Jean Lucas, Anne McCauley, Jeannette Tigner and her visitor, Louise Middleton, of Monroe, N. C.; Carolyn Estes, Patty Porter, Peggy Penick, of Montclair, N. J.; Frances Boykin, Lydia Hoke and Dorothy Selman.

Jewish Alliance Camp.
Jewish Alliance camp at Civitan has been the scene of interesting adventures for the past two weeks. The water pagant of "How Fire Was Saved" last Sunday was witnessed by more than 100 guests. Wednesday evening the camp presented a moonlight pagant depicting the adventures and capers of Puck, his fairies, brownies, birds and some Girl Scout campers. Blanche Saul made a delightful Puck. Evelyn Weinkle was the fairy queen, and Doris Weik was the fairy queen, with a splendid cast. Thursday the camp enjoyed a hobo hike to Camp Highland and participated with the campers in a play day festival.

Among the visitors to camp this week were Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Moss, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Porter, the ward M. Kahn, T. R. Blackmar and the Boy Scouts of Troop 27 and others.

Sunday morning will close the first two-week period at camp and usher in the final two weeks. The Georgia Power Company will leave the Alliance for camp Sunday morning at 10 o'clock and those interested in an enjoyable and beneficial vacation may communicate with the Alliance, 318 Capitol avenue, S. E., Main 2171.

Dance Pageant.

A pageant will be given by the La Fontaine School of Dancing Friday evening, August 21, at 8 o'clock at Rainbow Terrace, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Heinz on Ponce de Leon avenue, and will be given for the benefit of the Spanish Wesley class of the Druid Hills Methodist Episcopal church.

Bridge-Tea.

Women's Civic Club of West End will give a bridge-tee at 2:30 o'clock at the club rooms this afternoon. Mrs. Warren Bradley, Mrs. J. W. Bradley, Mrs. J. C. Childs and Mrs. Ellen Hargrove will have charge. Tables with prizes are $1, and for reservations, telephone any of the above ladies.

Benefit Bridge.

George W. Adair P. T. A. will sponsor a benefit bridge on the lawn of Mrs. E. W. Carpenter Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. There will be prizes and refreshments. For those who do not play bridge, other games may be arranged. Players are requested to bring their own cards.

WIFE PRESERVERS

YES, some substitutes are cleverly made to look like Kotex. But that doesn't make them the same. Are they clean, like Kotex? Scientifically made in surroundings of hospital cleanliness? Have modern methods been used, so that hands have never touched them? These questions remain unanswered, when you accept a substitute of whose makers you know nothing. But these are questions of vital importance, because they are directly related to your health. Accept no substitute of whose origin you are uncertain. Demand Kotex—the genuine. Hospitals use Kotex. It fully meets their requirements. Kotex is supremely comfortable. Shaped to fit. Adjustable. Disposable. Stays soft for hours.

Culbertson on Contract

BY ELY CULBERTSON, World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

The Principle Behind the Holdup

Most Bridge players, whose skill has progressed beyond the elementary stage, realize the necessity of holding up the controlling card of a suit which, in the main, is held by their opponents. This is especially true in cases where that controlling card is the Ace.

Even the average player, holding Ace and two small of a suit at a notrump declaration, will not play the Ace on the first round unless he can see enough tricks to make his contract in sight or unless the card is such as to clearly mark the suit as one of not more than four cards and almost certainly evenly divided in the two adverse hands.

There are other types of holdups of controlling cards, however, of adverse suits that are not recognized nearly so quickly. These types include cases where the Declarer holds K Q x of a suit, which is chosen as the Opening lead at notrump. Of course, if Third Hand plays the Ace on a lead of this kind, the Declarer's worries as to that suit are at an end. He still holds two stoppers and behind this safe fortress can probably develop his own low cards into trick-takers.

However, if the Ace does not go up and the Dummy is void of strength in the suit, most players, in this situation, will reach yearningly for the unattainable and win the first trick of the suit with one of the honors, apparently blissfully oblivious of the fact that thereby they have left themselves defenseless in case their right hand opponent can get in for a second lead of the suit through the now weakly guarded honor. Unless the Declarer can count enough tricks to make his contract, he should recognize his holding for just exactly what it is—a stopper in the adverse suit—and plan the play of the hand on exactly the same lines as though that stopper were the Ace with two small cards.

In a recent tournament I saw a hand which proved the undoing of a player, because of failure to adhere to the principles outlined above.

Albany Meets Defeat in Jackson Play

MOBILE BEATS
GEORGIA BOYS
BY 14-13 COUNT

Campbell Hurls for Albany; Rally Fails.

By Max Hall.

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 13.—Well, it's all over. Albany, state champion of Georgia, today was beaten by Mobile in one of the stormiest, most nerve-racking, most heart-breaking games of baseball ever witnessed in this fair city.

The score was 14 to 13. After the teams had scowled back and forth for eight innings, Albany led, 11 to 9. Then Mobile, with the help of six bases on balls, got five runs in the ninth to lead, 14 to 11. Albany then came up in the last of that ninth frame. They drove two runs over the plate and got the bases loaded with two out.

The catcher let a pitched ball trickle away, and little Bobby Dewa came flying in from third bearing the tying run. He and the ball got to the plate about the same time, and the umpire called him out.

Disappointment is a terrible thing, sometimes, but more so for the kids now these kids will never know the difference.

That nightmare of a game, in which Albany made seven errors and Mobile four, lasted till well after dark. It ended at ten minutes past seven, and the floodlights were burning for the last two innings.

Mobile will have as its opposition in the final game tomorrow the Jackson team, which conquered mighty Tampa in a terrific struggle which lasted 14 innings. The score was 4 to 2.

Pee-Wee Armstrong, Jackson mound ace, limited the Cubans to four safe blows, two of them scratch hits. The winners got two runs in the fourth frame.

STRIKING AT GAME.
W. L. Stribling was a spectator at today's games. He came up in the press box between contests and said a few words into a radio microphone. He predicted Albany would win the tourney, saying: "A Cracker is a Cracker wherever he goes. His prediction was wrong by a hair, and the Mobile players are now singing and shouting happily all over the Robert E. Lee hotel."

The miniature golf courses of Jackson have done a tremendous business during the last two days, but have taken in very little money. They are continually thronged with visiting sandlotters, who have the privilege of playing free, as well as attending the movies and league ball games and going swimming.

When the little white privilege ribbons were passed around Joe Gerson, the good-luck piece from the sandlots of Atlanta, and that correspondent were included. We played 144 holes of miniature golf yesterday afternoon without stopping—eight complete rounds. The being went into enormous figures. Before the start of the last round, Joe was ahead by $65,000 but in the last round this report-er won it all back and $48,000 besides.

HOMEWARD BOUND.
The boys went out to the league park last night and saw Jackson play Baton Rouge. The main attraction of the game was big Fred Sington, Jackson center fielder, who is the property of the Crackers. He played well and showed a hint of promise.

Joe Gerson had not been on the scene five minutes before he was in the Jackson dugout talking to the players.

So these Albany boys are going home. Coaches C. W. Thomas and Sam Burke, "Cull" Campbell, Red Willis, Bobby Dewa, Charlie Dewa, Emmett Stokes, Dink Gerst, Emmett Ward, Red Wise, Buddy Milner, Bob Clifton, Cih Crawford, Red Allen, Linwood Amos, Charlie Harris, Bud Shonwell—great fellows—are going home to Albany.

Court Decision Shifts Gotham Ring Control

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(AP)—A decision handed down by Supreme Court Justice Albert Cohn has shifted control of amateur boxing in New York state from the Amateur Athletic union to the State Athletic commission. The ruling, made in a "test" suit by the City Island Athletic club, was that under the Walker boxing law the athletic commission was sole control of licenses to hold boxing and wrestling matches at which prizes are offered or admission charged.

Kaye and Gar.
Kaye Don, the English speed boat record holder, is now on his way across the Atlantic for one of the leading battles of 1931.

This speed battle will be with Gar Wood for the Harmsworth trophy at Detroit and when this pair meet it will be something to see. They are the two speed boat kings of the world, but on this next occasion the American star faces the hardest competition of his career.

Kay Don has sent Miss England II along at 110 miles an hour and his more powerful engine may be a greater handicap than Gar Wood can handle, in spite of his amazing skill and his competitive record. Anyway, this meeting will be one of the classics of the year as far as the sporting menu is concerned.

The Cardinal Chance.

Gabby Street's Cardinals, now assaulting the strongholds of Brooklyn and New York, think they have a much better chance against the Athletics for the world's championship than they carried into action last fall.

For one thing, they figure the law of averages is about ready to swing their way. The American league has won four years in a row, so Gabby Street believes the tide is about due to turn.

The Cards also figure the addition of young Derringer will be a big help as he is one of the pitching finds of many years. They believe they can count on high-class pitching in every game, and each pitcher can bear down with all he has.

Street looks for the hardest and closest fight the world's series has known since 1926 when the Cardinals finally nipped the Yankees in the seventh game as Old Man Alexander closed the door on Yankee hopes.

However the dope may figure out, the Cardinals are all keyed up over the outlook and their chance to check a hall club that is out to win three championships in a row.

The Cardinals have class, speed,

ATLANTANS LOSE
IN DOUBLES PLAY
OF CULVER MEET

Seeded Players in Semi-Finals of Junior Net Play.

CULVER, Ind., Aug. 13.—Atlanta entries in the national boy and junior tennis championship fell by the wayside today as play reached the semi-finals in all divisions.

George Boynton, Atlanta, paired with Art Hendrix, Lakeland, Fla., lost a tight three-set match to Jay Cohn, Santa Monica, Cal., and Jack Lynch, Taft, Cal., last year's boys doubles champions, in the third round of the junior doubles by a 6-4, 3-6, 6-4 count. There was little to choose between the two teams today, but Cohn and Lynch's constant play together and resultant teamwork probably furnished the edge that put them over.

In the quarter-finals of the boys' doubles Winship Nunnally and Joe Whalen, Atlanta, were defeated by John Shostrom and Norm Bickel, Chicago, 6-3, 6-2.

CULVER, Ind., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Three favorites crowded into the semi-final round of the national junior singles tennis championship on the Culver courts today while a fourth was toppled into defeat.

The victim of the upset was Roney Donovan, of New York, the No. 2 seeded player of the championship, who fell before Henry Holden, of Houston, Texas, 6-4, 2-6, 7-5.

Bill Doeg, of Santa Monica, Cal.; Jack Lynch, Taft, Cal., and Jay Cohn, another Santa Monica star, were the favorites who marched into the semi-final bracket. Doeg started badly but came back in plenty of time to turn back Kendall Cram, Nashville, Tenn., 1-6, 6-2, 6-2, in the featured match of the quarter-final round.

THE GUMPS—WHAT A LIFE

Flower of Thorns

By Marie Conway Oemler

INSTALLMENT XXX.
"I'd like to go home. But, of course, if you'd rather stay here—she looked at him inquiringly."
"My dear girl, you must consider your own wishes. I—have been waiting to say something to you, Sally. I think you're quite well enough now to listen to what I have to say."
"I am quite well enough to listen to whatever you have to say, please," he found himself at a difficulty in saying what he had to say.

"I—wanted to say that perhaps—since your grandmother's death—there is really no reason why you should have to be married to me." She turned a startled face to him. "What do you mean?" she breathed. "What on earth do you mean?" "I mean that you can go free, Sally," said Sam Winstead. "Please, Sam, I don't understand," said Sally faintly. "You said you knew exactly what you were doing and why I did it—when I did it. But I have begun to question the wisdom of carrying on further. Had your grandmother remained, I should have held to my original plan. But now that she is removed I see no reason why you should continue to be held to a bond that may grow more and more irksome to you."

"And you wish to break that bond?" "I wish you to be free." "But I pledged myself. I promised, 'I am married to you,'" she cried. "Because circumstances forced you to. Left to yourself, free to follow your own inclinations, you wouldn't be. Because you don't love me. Held in what you think bondage, I should be free, as if that were enough."

"And you mean to keep it, I know. But I wish to give you back your word. I am not a slave-driver, Sally." "But we are married!" she cried, aghast. "Are we, Sally? Are we? Am I your husband, are you my wife? Can you face that without cringing? Do you think I can face the fact that your inmost heart would recoil?" "Don't let's talk about being husband and wife, please. I know better. My mother and father loved each other. I was born of their mutual passion. I would be willing to give—and take—nothing less than that. You do not love me. I question now whether you will ever love me. So I shall release you. You are young, you are lovely and desirable, it is natural that you should love again and be loved." He winced at that.

"You gave me Oakleigh—for a wedding present," she said in a low voice, irrelevantly.

"A bridegroom may give his bride what a mere maid might not hope to offer a young lady, even granting that she were willing to accept the gift," said he. "You were legally married to me. I could give you anything I wished to give you. I chose to give you Oakleigh. You need not scruple to accept it. I think you have won it fairly."

"I am . . . bewildered," she said. "I must have time to think." And she asked: "Do you hate me now? You should, for I have given you nothing but trouble." "What do you think?" he asked her, and gave her a deep, straight look. "I—I can't think. I am too confused," she tried to explain. And then exclaimed suddenly, her voice trembling: "You wanted to marry me, you know you said you wanted to marry me! And just as soon as you marry me you want me to go! You give me back Oakleigh and ask me please to go! I feel that you mean to be generous—I know you are generous—but—what is the matter with me, please? One man kills me for money, another man marries me and right away he wants to let me go! Fears of mortification, of flayed pride rose in her eyes. 'I don't understand!' she whispered.

"Sally, forgive me! I am a ghastly case! I haven't made myself clear. You can forgive me when you stop to consider that I was only considering your happiness, not my own inclinations. I would never let you go if only you wanted to stay. But you do not. You were honest and brave enough to tell me exactly why you consented to marry me—you wanted to secure the roof over Mrs. Rutherford's head. You didn't love me. You told me so, but you were willing to sacrifice yourself, and I—I ran the risk. And then your grandmother died. Do you think I would hold you to such a bargain? It would be monstrous. You couldn't be happy, and I couldn't be happy while I saw you wretched. I care too much. But at least let me try to insure your peace."

"You are such an astonishing person," she said. "Sometimes I astonish myself," he admitted with a pang. He was letting her go, he was letting her go! His heart hammered. He had to insure her happiness. But . . . O, Flower of Thorns . . . He held himself rigid—and to her resentful eyes he appeared to be quite at ease, composed, perfectly willing to let her go, well knowing that her destiny lay in his hands and that whatever it was to be, he would have made it! However, don't let's talk about me. Let us talk about what's to be done about you. And he managed to smile.

"Yes. What's to be done about me?" she agreed, dully. "You have been through so much, mostly unpleasant. Now reflect that you're going to be free, you're going to be mistress of your own life. You are young, you may—will—love again, be loved. You will look back upon all this as one remembers an evil dream. It is nothing but an unhappy dream, Sally. Now wake up! You talk, she said, 'as if I alone were to be considered. But what of you?'"

"Me? I have my work, remember. In the long run, nothing but his own work can satisfy any man."

"But how are we to manage? You told me I had a part to play, but before I had the chance to study, it even, you propose that I shall change the role altogether. I was to play the happy bride. Now I'm asked to play the free and happy divorcee-to-be. What is to be your role, may I ask?" "My part is to decamp. I shall visit Denmark again. There are some people in England I should like to confer with, too. And I've always wanted a closer acquaintance with the hills of Uganda."

"What of your father?" "Dad has his business."

"Does he—know? About us, I mean?"

"No. I have never told him, because I don't wish to make him unhappy. Nobody knows anything about us except ourselves."

"But if you go away now, every body will suspect that something is wrong, won't they?" "It will take some time to get all my business in order. The dairy is in pretty good shape, and Joe Dixon can carry on even as if I were here. Joe is a fine fellow. By the way, Joe is to be married shortly and if you want to do me a real favor, please be nice to the new Mrs. Dixon. She's a Virginia girl."

"I will be as nice as I know how to be," said she, simply. "And—what else, please?"

"You must meet the occasion as it arises, for awhile. Then, later, you must sue for your freedom. Say we had an irreconcilable difference, and I refused to live with you, and when you want to be free of me. Mr. Sinclair will act for you."

"It sounds . . . wicked!" she protested. "It's a strange," he corrected. "It sounds sensible," he corrected. "It is the best I can do under the circumstances."

"I'll be here for a few months more. It won't be long," he told her. "It wouldn't be long. Just a few months—and then all the remainder of his life without her! A few months more she would be here, bound to him, he could see her daily, she would be within reach. Afterwards—emptiness. Empty days, empty nights, weeks, months, years, in which she would have no share. Strange, that a dead heart could so torture him, he thought, with a sick quail. And strange, that when Sally was so freely offered what she had most, and when she should rejoice, that she couldn't!"
